UNIATCH: FLEXIBILITY AS STANDARD

At Ceildoor we produce a standard range of access hatches however we aim to produce products that answers the clients needs to the full and this process in the past over many years has enabled us to develop long standing relationships with our customers, which enable them to come back to us time after time with their ongoing requirements in our field.

The picture to the right is of a metal faced access hatch which through the clients specification required a 25mm recess between the door and the frame, we developed this hatch to suit their requirements, and this product is now being used widely throughout a major hotel chain in the UK.

SPECIAL BESPOKE HATCHES

With the unihatch range of products we offer total flexibility for the customer. There are however contracts where the client requires perhaps a special feature to their access hatches, such as a shadow gap feature, lighting holes in the faced of the door, simulated egg crate features, at Ceildoor we can accommodate these type of requirement within certain manufacturing constraints. Please contact our technical sales department if you have such a requirement and they will be please to assist you with you special enquiry.

TECHNICAL BACKUP

Our trained technical staff will try to accommodate our clients where every possible in our field.

The picture on the left hand side is of a perforated metal faced door which was required to create a simulated egg crate pattern.

Special colours are also available to order, when the client requires a colour match to the environment where the hatches are being installed.
